

We have more than enough bad influence on TV, which has confused our young people as to what is proper behavior. If we put more Skin and bad language on TV that will give them license to do act badly. We will end up with more teen pregnancy, violence born of less respect for others as portrayed by TV actors.

Why can't people understand that we are slowly decaying as a society? It is due in a big part to the media showing poor examples for our children who then act the same way.

I am strongly against any further loosened standards for television programing.

There should be less Nudity and less vulgar language on TV not more
